

Northern California Technical Communication Competition

Touchstone 2011-12 Call for Entries

Be Recognized for Your Technical Documentation!

The 2011-12 Touchstone Technical Communication Competition is now accepting entries in the following categories:

- Technical Print Publications and Documentation
- Online Technical Communication
- Technical Art

The deadline for entries is Saturday, October 1, 2011.

For more information and instructions on how to enter:
www.stc-touchstone.org.

Touchstone advances the field of technical communication by recognizing outstanding work. Touchstone awards can bring recognition from professional peers and increased visibility with employers and clients.

The competition will culminate in an awards ceremony in January, 2012. Workplace awards presentations may be arranged for those who request them. Workplace presentations are often attended by entrants' peers, managers, and company executives.

Touchstone's experienced judges also provide feedback to help entrants improve their work.

Top award winners in the Touchstone competition are sent on to compete in the STC international technical communication competition.

Beyond the direct benefits you receive from entering the Touchstone competition, its existence and continued success help to educate clients and employers about the value of what technical communicators do.

Competition proceeds help support STC chapter activities and the Kenneth Gordon Scholarship. The Gordon Scholarship benefits the profession by providing scholarships to students in technical communication programs in Northern California.